Items of Interest.

Railroad accidents in the United States average one person killed and four injured every working day in the year.

A Cincinnati man was wounded in Texas because he forgot and addressed a man as "Mister" instead of "general."

It is reported that the Turkish Government has decided to renounce all its commercial treaties with foreign powers.

"The one thing," says Jean Paul, which a maiden most easily forgets is how she looks—hence mirrors were invented.

One hundred and twenty newspapers

Three tons of base ball bats have been shipped by a single Vermont manufacturer to the Boston market this winter.

A jury in San Diego, Cal., the other day brought in a verdict of not guilty, with a request to the defendant to restore the sheep.

A Western paper is dead. In its last rasp it gently whispered: "Two hundred subscribers, and only thirty-one of them paid up."

A correspondent, writing from Rome, says that an Englishman was knocked down there during the carnival for insulting the American flag.

An Illinois judge has decided that he marriage of a person subsequent to making a will is null and void.

There will soon be a law to prevent foolish athletes from dashing their brains out by flying leaps for the amusement of the multitude.

The recent cold and wet weather in the Western Territories has been very destructive to the sheep, which are reported to be dying by thousands.

An Indianapolis father shot six times at a supposed burglar, and was astonished to hear the fellow ask, "Whammer makker, fasser? Whizzer doing?"

Phillip Sheridan recently declared that his parents had not hurried over and secured a birth-place for him in Ohio, so he might be a much better Fenian than he is.

A physician, in company with others of the crowd, thus boasted: "I was Arrogant, and fighting."

A man named Norton advertised in a Georgia paper: "If there is any more gossip circulated about me there will be no fifty or sixty first class funerals in his town."

A Delaware man willed his thirty-eight relatives five cents each, and $300.00 to a college, and the funeral procession didn't occupy two minutes passing a given point.

A locomotive in Wisconsin is reported to have jumped from its own track and landed exactly on a parallel track six feet to the right. The passengers were shaken, but no person was hurt.

The Canadian authorities have indicted the managers of the Great Western Railway for manslaughter for the loss of life occasioned by a recent Occident. United States please copy.

There is a man in Colusa, Cal., who took an oath never to wash his face or comb his hair until Douglas was elected.

An exchange says that his face resembles one of a half-acre lot skirted by a growth of tangled brush.

To evade the payment of a $10,000 judgment in a breach of promise case, E. George, a wealthy gunsmith of Marysville, Cal., has married Miss Kate Taylor, thereby satisfying the demands of justice and securing a wife.

About a hundred rods of the Winona and St. Peter Railway, in Minnesota, was found to have disappeared after the breaking of a recent snow blockade, and no rounding in the slough over which it was laid reveals any trace of it.

A Philadelphia judge has just charged

A pair at San Francisco chartered a tug and steamed outside the bay, with the romantic intention of having the wedding ceremony performed on the pounding billow. It is comforting to know that they were very sea-sick, and were obliged to return unmarried.

A mammoth cobra was sent from East India to an American showman. On shipboard a litter of seven snakes was born. Upon arrival in Boston the ship's manifest accounted for only one snake, and the cargo contained eight. That raised a still unsettled question of duties.

Talleyrand wrote to a lady on the Death of her husband: "Ah, madame!" The sympathy he felt was fully expressed. Soon after he heard of the lady's new marriage, and wrote, "Oh, madame!" Indignant surprise could not have been more eloquently manifested.

A few days since the roadmaster of the Rock Island road, with a companion, traveled from Washington to Muscatine on a hand car, propelled entirely by a sail about six feet square. The strong wind blowing at the time enabled him to make the trip—forty miles—in just two hours, the average time made by passenger trains.

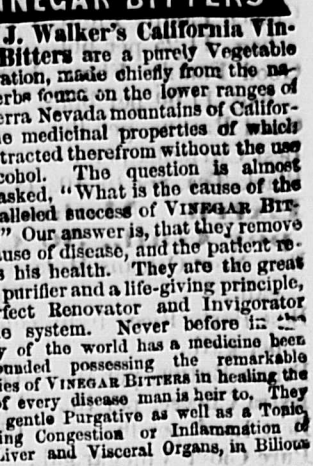

It is not generally known that there is a law in Kentucky giving to the wife or any relative of a confirmed drunkard the right to sue any whiskey dealer who, after notice not to sell, continues to sell liquor to an inebriate. The law precribes that there shall be a recovery of not less than $20 damages for each offense after notice.

A bill, introduced in the California Senate to regulate fares and freights on railroads, provides that any purchaser of a passenger ticket transferring the same shall be guilty of misdemeanor, and any person purchasing a ticket except from the railroad company or its authorized agent shall be deemed guilty of the same offense.

A SNOOK.—A debtor who owed eight hundred dollars, offered his creditor eight promissory notes of a hundred dollars each, payable on the first day of eight consecutive months, which were accepted. The first note was protested on its becoming due; and on the creditor's asking the debtor for an explanation, the latter said, "The fact is, my friend, I can't pay you anything, and divided the debt into small portions to save you the shock of losing it all at once."

Reproach.
The words that trembled on your lips
Were uttered not—I know it well;
The tears that would your eyes eclipse
Were checked and smothered ere they fell:
The looks and smiles I gained from you
Were little more than others won,
And yet you are not wholly true,
Nor wholly just what you have done.

You know, at least you might have known,
That every little grace you gave,
Your voice's sweetest lowered tone,
Your hand's faint shake, on parting wave,
Your every sympathetic look
At words that changed your soul to touch,
While reading from some favorite book,
Were much to me—alas, how much!

You might have seen—perhaps you saw,
How all of these were steps of hope
On which I rose, in joy and awe
Up to my passion's lofty scope:
How after each, a firmer tread
I planted on the slippery ground,
And raised my steps to higher ground,
And even new assurance found.

May be, without a further thought,
It only pleased you thus to please,
And thus to kindly feelings wrought,
You measured not the sweet degree;
Yet, though you hardly understood
What I was following at your call,
You thought—I dare say you should—
Have thought how far I had to fall.

And thus when fallen, faint, and bruised,
I see another's glad success,
I may have wrongfully accused
Your heart of vulgar fickleness;
But even now, in calm review
Of all I lost, and all I won,
I cannot deem you wholly true,
Nor wholly just what you have done.

—ROBERT MONROTON MILNE.

A GOOD INVESTMENT.
"That's a smart little fellow
yours," said a gentleman named Winslow to a laboring man who was called in occasionally to do work about his warehouse. "Does he go to school?"
"Not now, sir," replied the poor
man.

"Why not, Davis? He looks like a bright lad."

"He's got good parts, sir," returned the father; "but—"

"Times are rather hard now, sir, and I have a large family. It's about as much as I can do to keep hunger and cold away. Ned reads very well, writes a tolerably fair hand, considering all things, and can figure a little. And that's about all I can do for him. The other children are coming forward, and I reckon he will have to go to a trade
middleing soon."

"What old is Ned?" inquired Mr.
Winslow.

"He's turned eleven."

"You've not put him to a trade before he's thirteen or fourteen?"

"Can't keep him at home idling about all that time, Mr. Winslow. It would be his ruination. It's young to go out and work, I know, to rough it and tough it among strangers. But he's got a slight unsteadiness in the poor man's voice—"but it's better than doing nothing."

"Ned ought to go to school a year or two longer, Davis," said Mr. Winslow, with some interest in his manner.
"And you are not able to pay the quarterly bills. I got a dividend from my I'll pay for Ned's schooling, and I'll keep him at home some two or three years longer?"

"Yes, I expect that of you, Mr.
Winslow," said the poor man, and his voice now trembled. He uncovered his head as he spoke, almost reverently.
"But you have not to pay for schooling
my boy, sir."

"But you have not answered my question, Davis. What say you?"

"Oh, sir, if you are really in earnest—"

"I am in earnest. Ned ought to go to school. If you can keep him home a few years longer, I will pay for his education during the time. If you send him to school for three or four years, I will give you a certificate."

"He held up a small slip of paper as he spoke."

"Five pounds! A large operation!
In what fund?"

"Oh," said the friend, shrugging his shoulders, "don't do much in the way myself. No great faith in the security. What dividend do you expect to receive?"

"Don't know. Rather think it will be large."

"Better take some more of the stock if you think it is so good. There is plenty in the market to be bought at less than par."

Mr. Winslow smiled, and said that, in all probability, he should invest a few more small sums in the stock, and see how they would turn out. The little piece of paper, which he called a certificate of stock, was the first year's bill he had paid for Ned's schooling.
For four years these bills were regularly paid, and then Ned, who had well improved the opportunities so generously afforded him, was taken on a salary recommendation of Mr. Winslow, into a large importing house. He was at that time in his sixteenth year. Because the lad could not enter into this employment, however, Mr. Winslow had to make another investment in this charity fund. Ned's father was too poor to give him an outfit of clothing
such as was required in the new position to which he was to be elevated;
knowing this, the generous merchant kindly advanced again and furnished the needed supply.

As no wages were received by Ned for the first two years, Mr. Winslow continued to buy his clothing, while his father still gave him his board. On reaching the age of eighteen, Ned's employers, who were much pleased with his industry, intelligence and attention to business, put him on a salary of eighty pounds a year. This made him at once independent. He could pay his own boarding and find his own clothes,

and proud did he feel on the day when advanced to so desirable a position.

"How comes on your investment?"
asked Mr. Winslow, his mercantile friend about this time. He spoke jestingly.

"It promises very well," was the smiling reply.

"It is rising in the market, then?"

"Yes."

"Any dividends yet?"

"Oh, certainly a large dividend."

"Ah! You surprise me. What kind of dividends?"

"More than a hundred per cent."

"Indeed! Not in money?"

"Oh, no; but in something better than money—the satisfaction that flows
from an act of benevolence wisely
done."

"Oh, that's all." The friend spoke with ill-concealed contempt.

"Don't you call that something?"
asked Mr. Winslow.

"It is too unsatisfactory for me," replied the other. "I go in for returns of a more tangible character. Those you speak of won't pay."

"Mr. Winslow smiled and bade his friend good morning."

"He knows nothing," he said to himself, as he mused on the subject, "of the pleasure of doing good. The loss is all on his side. If we have the ability to secure investments of this kind, they are about the best we can make, and all are able to put in some money in the fund of good works, let it be ever so small an amount. Have I suffered the abridgement of a single penny by what I have done?"

"I have gained in pleasant thoughts and feelings by the act? Largely. It has been a source of perennial enjoyment. I could not have believed that so small a cost I could have secured so much pleasure. And how great the good that may flow from what I have done! Instead of being a laborer, whose work in the world goes for nothing, I am the handling of boxes, bales and barrels, or the manufacture of some article in connection with, Edward Davis, advanced by education, takes a position of more extended usefulness, and, by his higher ability and more intelligent action in society, will be able, if he rightly use the power he has, to advance the world's onward movement in a most important degree."

Thus thought Mr. Winslow, and his heart grew warm within him. Time proved that he had not erred in affording the lad an opportunity for obtaining good education. His quick mind resulted in the position in which he was placed, accurate ideas of business, and industry and force of character made these ideas thoroughly practical. Every year his employers advanced his salary, and, on attaining his majority, it was further advanced to the sum of one hundred and fifty pounds per annum.

With every increase the young man had devoted a larger and larger portion of his income to improving the condition of his father's family, and when it was raised to the sum last mentioned,
he took a neat, comfortable house,
much larger than the family had before lived in, and paid the whole rent himself. Moreover, through his acquaintance and influence, he was able to get a place for his father at lighter employment than he had hitherto been engaged in, and at a higher rate of wages.

"Any more dividends on your investment?" said Mr. Winslow's friend, who came to this time. He spoke with the manner, and from the old feelings.

"Yes, I got a dividend from the largest I have yet received," replied
the merchant, smiling.

"Did you? Hope it does you a deal of good."

"It is doing me a great deal of good," returned Mr. Winslow.

"Something far better. Let me explain."

"Do so, if you please."

"You know the particulars of this investment?" said Mr. Winslow.

"His friend shook his head, and replied—"

"No. The fact is I never felt interested enough in the matter to inquire particulars."

"Oh, Well, then, I must give you a little history. You know old Davis, who has been working about our store
for the last ten or fifteen years?"

"Yes."

"My investment was in the education of his son."

"I understand," said the friend, who had been told that the man who had been so kind to him, was a good man,
and that his son was a bright young
man.

"His father took him from school when he was only seven years old, because he could not afford to send him any longer, and was about putting the little fellow out to learn a trade. Something interested me in the child, who was a bright lad, and, acting from a good impulse that came over me at the moment, I proposed to his father to send him to school for three or four years, if he would board and clothe him during the time. To this he readily consented. So I paid for Ned's schooling until he was in his sixteenth year, and then got him into Webb & Waldron's warehouse, where he has been ever since."

"Webb & Waldron's?" said the friend, evincing some surprise.

"I know all their clerks very well, for
we do a great deal of business with them.
Which is the son of old Mr. Davis?"

"The one they call Edward."

"Not that tall, fine-looking young man—their leading salesman?"

"The same."

"Is it possible? Why, he is worth any two clerks in the office!"

"I know he is."

"For his age, there is not a better salesman in the city."

"So I believe," said Mr. Winslow;
"and in the kindness of the merchant,
or gratitude for the aid he has given,
he has placed him in a position to be able to do so much for his father and himself, that what he so much dreaded in sight, when it is thrown upon him, does him no harm, and is, in fact, a great blessing. He has not only been able to pay his board and find himself in a position to do so, but he

TEMPERANCE MOVEMENT.—An organization of the Cadets of Temperance is to be established in East Weymouth, in connection with the Temple of Honor, the object of this organization being the promotion of the young and the placing in the temperance ranks preparatory to their future admission into the more advanced Order.

A number of gentlemen connected with the Temple of Honor have purchased the building recently owned by Mr. Charles Humphrey, and occupied in the upper part by the Cadets of Temperance, to be devoted to the purposes of the Order. The lower story will probably be fitted up for the Cadets of Temperance. The price paid for the building is $3400.

YACHTING.—The yachting season on Weymouth river this spring, promises a lively opening. Particularly prominent among the craft under way, is the fast sailing yacht Mystery, formerly known as the Dunderberg. Extensive repairs have already been put on the vessel, and it is expected to be ready for the season. The Mystery is a new sloop, and sails of the most rigid cut, and a dainty coat of paint, are among the substantial improvements. It is expected that her cabin will be elegantly furnished, and every thing seen before in these parts. Her enterprising master has no fear that she will show her keel to any boat on the river. The Mystery is a new spirit in keeping up the reputation of this section for crack yachtsmen.

HOURLY MEETING.—For the information of the members of Post 58, it is announced that until otherwise ordered the hour of Post Meetings will be at 8 o'clock P. M.

REWARD.—Mr. Wm. B. Worster, of Quincy, who aided in the capture of the thief who attempted to rob the President of the Graton Bank in Boston, has been presented with a handsome ebony cane, with gold top, by the President of the Bank.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL CONCERT held at the Union Church, Weymouth, last Sabbath evening, was quite fully attended, nearly filling their large lecture room. The exercises were conducted by a review of the first month's lessons by several of the older classes, illustrated by selections of Scripture scenes of similar character with those described in the lessons, and a short sketch, prepared for the occasion, of the Amalekites and their connection with the Hebrew nation, which were read by a number of young ladies. The singing was a most pleasing feature of the concert, and two selections, sung by a quartette, (members of the school), were very appropriate and acceptable. A short address was made by Rev. Mr. Hunt, who appears to be a very general favorite. He will deliver a lecture on next Sunday evening to young men, and has named for his subject, "Will it pay?" an announcement which will be likely to draw out a full house.

ENLARGEMENT.—The facilities at Morrison's woolen factory, North Brimfield, are to be enlarged by the erection of a new building, which will give abundant room in connection with the stone factory, for extensive enlargement of the business.

ACCIDENT.—Mrs. Arthur Hobart, of Weymouth, in company with her sister, were driving through East Brimfield, last Tuesday evening, when their carriage came in collision with another vehicle and in jumping from the carriage Mrs. Hobart was severely injured, the wheels passing over one of her legs, and in so doing she sustained internal injury. Both shafts were broken by the collision, and the horse ran toward home, dragging the carriage by the wheel. When opposite the residence of Edw. Avery, Esq., he cleared himself from the carriage, which was overturned, and Miss Blanchard was violently thrown to the ground, but escaped without serious injury. Their escape from fatal results is truly providential.

FESTIVAL.—The ladies of the Baptist Society of Weymouth are making preparations for an April and Bow Festival, to be given Wednesday and Thursday evenings of next week, in the large hall of the Weymouth Hotel. Suitable entertainment will be provided, and they cordially invite the patronage of the public.

PRESENTATION.—Richard A. Hunt, Esq., of Weymouth Landing, has accepted the position of organist at the meetings of the Masonic lodge, which his brethren of the lodge thought they would provide him with support for the rest of his life, and accordingly procured a substantial gold headed ebony cane, with which they assailed him, Tuesday evening of last week, accompanying their assault with expressions of friendship and esteem which enforced a return of thanks for the kindly caning.

COMPLIMENTARY.—The members of Stetson's Weymouth Band, desirous of manifesting their regard for the favorite cornet player, Mr. E. F. Clapp, have offered their services for a grand complimentary concert, to be given next Thursday evening, in Randall's hall, and they will be assisted by the East Weymouth Quartette, and other talent. An attractive program will be presented.

PRESENTATION.—Mr. T. J. Evans, Clerk of the Weymouth Band, entertained the corps at his residence in East Weymouth, last Saturday evening, and was surprised with a presentation of silver table cutlery, the gift of his fellow members.

SILVER WEDDING.—Mr. and Mrs. Dana Smith, of Weymouth Landing, celebrated the quarter century anniversary of their union Wednesday evening of last week, by a gathering of friends and acquaintance at their residence on Prospect street. The evening was passed in an enjoyable manner, and the hosts were the recipients of an abundant supply of silver tokens of love and friendship.

"WOMAN SUFFRAGE."—Ex-Governor Lee, of Wyoming, will deliver an address on Woman Suffrage, in Lincoln Hall, on Sunday evening next, at 7-12 o'clock. Gen. Lee was invited to deliver the address by the Woman's Suffrage Association, and will give an interesting account of his happy results. All are invited to attend. A collection will be taken up to defray the expenses.

WILD GESE.—"music in the air" has been prevalent for a week, the wild geese flight of the birds having commenced.

J. White Belcher, Clerk of the District Court East Norfolk, has been elected nineteen successive years, as one of the Selectmen of Randolph.

THE fifth anniversary of St. Paul's Lodge, Knights of Pythias of Quincy, was celebrated by a social reunion, at the Town Hall, last Monday evening.

South Weymouth Matters.

THE STOUTON CHORAL SOCIETY, the oldest musical organization in the country, is receiving large accessions to its numbers, from the lovers of music in the circuit of towns embracing Stoughton, Easton, North Bridgewater, Abington, Hingham, Randolph, Braintree, Quincy and Weymouth. They are looking forward with interest to the celebration of their one hundredth anniversary, which will occur in a few years. With a view of increasing the interest and enjoying the sympathy of the musical community, they have held monthly meetings since Christmas, which meetings have been largely attended. At their last gathering, on North Bridgewater, the programme was very fine, of which, however, we can speak particularly of only two pieces—one a quartette of mixed voices from North Bridgewater and the other, a quartette of female voices from Stoughton—rendered without an accompaniment, of which we can only say they were faultless.

Weymouth, Wm. Wild, Esq., of Boston, is too well known to the musical public to need any notice here. The society holds its next meeting at the vestry of Rev. J. M. Leach, church, South Weymouth, on the 14th, inst., at 1-2 past 7 P. M. Among those who will sing solos we mention Miss Ruth Holbrook, Mrs. A. T. French, and Mrs. C. C. French. Cordial invitation is given to all singers to unite themselves with this society.

Singers are admitted by being proposed and voted; there being no expense, and no membership fee is required. The books used at the meeting at South Weymouth are the Sacred Chorus and the Jubilee Song Book. A short time after the alarm was given, by the active exertions of Mr. Avery S. Howe and others in the immediate neighborhood, the Chemical Engine, ordered by the city, was in excellent order, the machine prevented the fire from spreading to the adjacent buildings until the engine "Conqueror" could be made ready for work, and water being poured on the flames which had attacked Dea. Wright's barn were effectively quenched. The building in which the fire commenced was totally destroyed, together with the stocks and tools of Fagan's paint shop, Bowles', wheelwright, Roche, blacksmith, and W. H. Joy, harness maker; also carriages, two sleighs, and five harnesses, one of the latter worth $100, and belonging to Mr. Jas. Blanchard. Among the carriages was a new provision wagon just purchased for $500. The total loss is estimated at from $5000 to $6000, on stocks and building, the latter being insured for $700. The building had been bargained for by A. Raymond, Jr., and was to be sold for $1000. The papers had not been passed. Mr. Joy contemplated removing this week to a new building erected for the accommodation of his business, and Mr. Roche, the blacksmith, was intending to occupy a portion of the new structure, but the fire got the start of them, and removed their store and tools in an unceremonious manner. Had it not been for the celebrity with which the much despised "Soda Fountain" was brought into operation, and the timely check to the fire which was rendered by it, the corner might have been swept clean.

The residence of John S. Fogg was seriously threatened at one time, the fire and sparks being blown directly upon it, but a force of men stationed there with buckets prevented its being injured.

A correspondent furnished the following account of the fire, received after the above was in type:

Fire of South Weymouth—Loss $6000.

The quiet village of South Weymouth was aroused by the alarm of fire sounded from the steeple of Rev. Mr. McLean's church, last Saturday morning at 14 before 4 o'clock, by Chas. C. Tinkham, who thinks the fire had just broken out. The fire proved to be on the "Soda Fountain," a building occupied by Chas. Bowles, wheelwright; John Roche, blacksmith; Peter Fagan, carriage painter; Walter H. Joy, harness maker. As near as can be learned, the fire was caused by the smoking of a pipe, which was being smoked in the spot and done great service in keeping the fire down. (Dea. Wright's stable then being all on fire) until the Conqueror came to their assistance, and being delayed a few minutes on account of the large stocks that could not be moved from the well in the square. It was soon found that the cellar in Music Hall was two feet deep with water, where she dropped her suction hose, and a powerful stream of water directed the lighted shingles in every direction and controlling the fire in an instant, and to the great joy and satisfaction of all present.

Capt. W. Pratt, was early on the ground, with the Hook and Ladder, and reported to the Engineers that he was ready for business. The Engineers were early on the ground, directing the fire department as they thought best, and they reported to the Engineers that they were ready for business. The fire was seen in the smoke and water, drenched to the skin. Mr. A. S. Howe proved himself to be a salamander, standing face to face with the fire for a long time, (somebody must have played upon him, or else he was sweating fearfully.) I think the people of South Weymouth are indebted to him for the preservation of the fire department, the entire corner would have been laid in ashes.

The building was owned by Mrs. Chas. Rogers, and was purchased by A. Raymond, Jr., the last Monday evening, to take the deed the 1st of April; but concluding to build a house for his son, did not take the deed at that time. It was nearly covered by insurance. The principal losers are A. Raymond, Jr., one market wagon, supposed to be the best one ever built in town, and nearly finished, $250; Albert T. French, carriage $300; Green Shaw buggy, $200; Francis Cushing, buggy, $200; Jotham Salisbury, double sleigh, $150; sleigh from Holbrook, $40; J. H. Hays, one trailing sulky.

Mr. Bowles lost a large assortment of wheelwright's tools of every description and of first quality, his loss being about $600. Mr. Bowles is a superior workman, and his loss is deeply felt by his patrons, and it is hoped that it will be made up in part, if not wholly, John Roche lost $400, and is very unfortunate, he losing nearly all last year's work by the loss of his tools. He intends to work a few days, but has a shop to continue work, but the rest are thrown out of shop and tools, and Beautiful Spring and Items.

The spring-time is here once more. The trees are budding, the grass is springing and the blue-birds and robins are singing. No matter if the weather consists of four parts wind and snow-showers to one part of sunshine, still it is spring. If you had no almanac you would know it. You can read the signs and it is charming reading. Especially if your dear neighbors keep hers.

With your whole soul alive to the animating revelations of renewed life on every hand you are anxiously desirous to cultivate the beauties of the spring. You will have to cultivate some of them if you expect to keep enough over for seed. Both love and patience will have to struggle for their lives.

You look out over your cherished lawn where the green carpet of Nature is just showing its velvet pile and you rue the thought of the labor and expense of this cost you, and of the hopes needlessly blighted. There are brown unsightly patches all over the lawn, and here and there a few patches of green, but they are not the green of the lawn, but the green of the weeds.

There are brown unsightly patches all over the lawn, and here and there a few patches of green, but they are not the green of the lawn, but the green of the weeds. You have a liking for early peas and other new vegetables. You have a liking for early peas and other new vegetables. You have a liking for early peas and other new vegetables.

When it is planted, and the pea-rows and beds and hills are symmetrically arranged you bethink yourself of their dangers and detail a sentinel from the home force to "shoot."

By and by the tender green shoots appear to meet the sun, and watching their growth you are a certain sure that the spring-time is a delight. Ah, yes! it is the loveliest season of the year. You feel like making poetry.

One day your sentiment is taken ill or obliged to absent himself. Some other duty comes up. You cannot afford to keep more than one person expressly to "shoot." You come from your work at night to find all your pretty things uprooted, your choice seed and labor lost, and yourself the possessor of the worst looking garden patch you ever saw. And it is too late in the season to do it over again, supposing you stick enough to try it.

You find yourself involuntarily meditating upon chicken dined spiced with arsenic. Somebody whispers the golden rule to you, but you think that rule belongs where the hens do.

Beautiful spring! Full of the renewed miracle of life and beauty! How gladly would we copy thy words, and make them a monument to make the earth fair and glorious;—it we could!

QUINCY SAVINGS BANK.—At the semi-annual meeting of the Trustees held at the banking room, 84, Hanover street, on April 7, 1874, the semi-annual report of the Treasurer, George H. Gill, was made and accepted. By this report it appears that the bank has a deposit of $4,000,000, and 316,750 deposits, which is an average of about $324 each. The deposit account has gained $350,000 in three years, and outside of the cities and towns this bank ranks the sixth in the State in amount of deposits. This result is largely attributable to the fact of its removal and separation in April, 1871, from its former connection with the National Bank, and its establishment in a convenient and central location, and with a Treasurer employed solely for its own business. A semi-annual dividend is now payable, three per cent, amounting to $25,533.48. This bank has paid eight semi-annual dividends, at the rate of six per cent, per annum, and now has a surplus of $2,000,000. The next extra dividend will be payable in April, 1875. The loans are on first mortgages of real estate, $747,983.81; on bank stock, $41,900; on United States bonds, $1,000,000; on personal security, $1,000,000; on United States bonds, $600,000; bank stock, $35,862.74; railroad bonds, $20,000. All the securities are of the highest quality, and the bank is in a position to make loans on favorable terms. The bank is in a position to make loans on favorable terms. Correspondence of the Gazette.

Letter from San Francisco. Gilroy, 80 miles south from San Francisco, with a population of about 2500, is the depot for what is known as the Upper San Joaquin Valley, a fine agricultural district, situated on the Southern Pacific R. R. The farmers bring their products here for shipment to San Francisco, and find in the village stores all the supplies they need for use on their ranches. Gilroy and the country immediately surrounding it, is known by the oldest inhabitants as the old Gilroy Ranch, a Spanish grant to a man by that name.

The ride to Sargent's, 12 miles below, and at present the terminus of the railroad in that direction, is a perfect delight. The country seems capable of being made a farmer's paradise, such is the soil and climate. At Sargent's, then a place of about four houses, we take stage for lower country. Our stage was drawn by six beautiful roan horses, perfectly matched and all that the most fastidious driver could ask. To San Juan, our first stop, is about six miles, and the country is one that needs only the intelligent will to do farmer to make it blossom as the rose. The bottom lands are a deep loamy soil, and the hills surrounding the valley are in some instances growing grain. These with the higher hills furnish most excellent pasturage for cattle, judging from the rank grass and the healthy condition of the cattle grazing upon it. They had that contented comfortable look that one delights to see in the eyes of a well-fed animal.
